

Xi(Sean) Chen is a final year PhD candidate in computer science at University of Massachusetts Amherst (UMass), with advice from Przemysław Grabowicz. He also work closely with Brendan O'Connor (UMass), Ethan Zuckerman (MIT&UMass), Scott Hale (Oxford) and David Jurgen (UMich).

During internships, he led research that resulted in publications with Amazon AGI Foundation, UCLA, and Zhipu AI \(Chinese OpenAI\) under the guidance of Jie Tang (Tsinghua).

His research is pioneering event evolution within textual media graph at global scale , with interdisciplinary study of LLM training, machine learning, information retrieval, natural language processing, network science, and social science. He has published papers on top-tier conferences and journals like ICML, The WebConf, NAACL, ICWSM, IC2S2, TADA, etc.